

How to recommend medical cannabis to patients

A recommending medical provider (RMP) is a Utah-licensed physician (MD, DO), advanced practice registered nurse (APRN), physician assistant (PA), or podiatrist (DPM) who recommends medical cannabis for their patients.

You can register as an RMP in the electronic verification system (EVS) or you can submit a paper medical cannabis certification directly to a medical cannabis pharmacy.

How to use the EVS

1. Complete 4 hours of continuing education on medical cannabis every 2 years. You can complete any continuing education that focuses on medical cannabis.
2. Register in the electronic verification system (EVS).
3. Meet with the patient and complete a medical assessment.
4. Submit the patient's medical cannabis certification in the EVS.

How to use a paper certification

1. Complete 4 hours of continuing education on medical cannabis every 2 years. You can complete any continuing education that focuses on medical cannabis.
2. Meet with the patient and complete a medical assessment.
3. Download and fill out a paper certification form from our website and send it to a medical cannabis pharmacy through encrypted email, secure fax, or in-person delivery by the patient.
